

SteriPEN by Hydro-Photon, Inc.

If you live in an area prone to natural disasters – hurricanes, floods, tornados or earthquakes - SteriPEN is an essential part of your preparation. These events can disrupt safe water supplies in a number of ways, including electrical shutdowns, water-pipe damage or bacterial contamination of water lines. All have the potential to create ideal environments for microbial growth.

SteriPEN® utilizes proven UV light to destroy bacteria, protozoa and viruses, quickly and effectively. Keeping a SteriPEN Emergency model in your home and car will give you the security and confidence that you and your family will have access to safe drinking water.

While you still may choose to store extra bottled water at home, SteriPEN eliminates the need to stockpile large quantities of water for emergency situations.

For those with well-based water supplies with the potential for contamination, or those who live in areas with frequent boil alerts, the SteriPEN Emergency is also a must-have product, added insurance that you'll have safe water for your home until the danger passes.
